The DISC proponents make unsupported claims.

Commuter Jobs are NOT "Green"

- It's not true that if DISC isn’t built in Davis, it will be built elsewhere with more greenhouse gas emissions. All new commercial buildings anywhere in California must meet ever-increasing energy efficiency standards.

- Because almost 80% of the greenhouse gases generated from DISC come from the projected 24,000+ daily car trips, DISC would actually have a smaller carbon footprint if built in other locations with superior public transportation access and much shorter commutes for workers.

Economic Benefits are Exaggerated

Claimed monetary benefits from DISC are based on unrealistic, inflated assumptions compared to an earlier analysis of the same project done by the same economic consultant.

- Average property valuations now assumed for DISC are 48% higher compared to just five years ago and 66% higher than current regional averages, grossly overestimating the property tax revenue the City will receive.

- Claiming it was speculative, the City's consultant refused to estimate the impact of COVID on DISC's projected revenues. But demand for commercial and retail space is collapsing, due to the relentless shift to telecommuting and on-line retail, further reducing property and sales taxes.

Overly optimistic assumptions make DISC look lucrative, but DISC may actually cost the City money.

Urban Blight from Cannibalized Exiting Businesses

- DISC's Environmental Impact Report projected that 313,000 square feet of existing commercial space in Davis is at risk of vacancy due to DISC competition. Our downtown and neighborhood merchants cannot survive another onslaught.
