APRIL GREEN GARDENING CLASSES

Join us for classes that are out of this world!

APRIL 4: LIVE LONG AND COMPOST
6:30 PM at the Redwood Building, 1001 Anderson Road
Throwing organic material in the trash is illogical. Composting is logical. Join us for a logic-filled class on backyard composting, worm composting, home-made food digesters and in-ground composting! After attending the class, Davis residents can sign up to receive a starter set of composting worms for $5, and residents in single-family homes can purchase a backyard compost bin for $10.

APRIL 11: MAKE IT SOW
6:30 PM at the Davis Senior Center Activity Room, 646 A Street
Join us for an engaging green gardening class. Its hour and a half-long mission: to explore environmentally friendly gardening, to seek out methods for retaining rainwater on-site and new ways to manage yard trimmings, to boldly go where no garden has gone before! This class will also cover less-toxic alternatives to pesticides and fertilizers, using beneficial species to assist in controlling pests, and more!

APRIL 18: TO PLANT ESTABLISHMENT...AND BEYOND!
6:30 PM at the Davis Senior Center Activity Room, 646 A Street
Join Ellen Zagory, Director of Public Horticulture for the UC Davis Arboretum and Public Garden, for a galactically amazing class on water-wise landscaping with native plants. Ellen will explore how to incorporate drought-tolerant California native plants into your landscape and how to irrigate them during establishment and beyond for a cosmically beautiful, long lasting, water-wise landscape.

APRIL 25: MAY THE TREES BE WITH YOU
6:30 PM at the Redwood Building, 1001 Anderson Road
Trees provide clean air, beauty, wildlife habitats and they reduce energy costs associated with heating and cooling buildings. Join us at a class to learn more about the trees that surround us: how to choose the right trees, how to prune, mulch and water trees, and about the habitats that our urban forest provides to local wildlife.

Davis residents that attend a class can enter to win prizes, including reusable shopping bags, waterless car wash kits and worm castings. Register for a class by contacting the Public Works Department at PWWeb@CityofDavis.org or (530) 757-5686.
